Casals & Associates to Provide Rule of Law Technical Assistance Services to USAID

FALLS CHURCH, Va. - (July 18, 2013) - Casals & Associates, a DynCorp International company, today announced that it has been awarded a position on a multiple award, indefinite quantity contract (IQC) to provide the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) international rule of law technical assistance services.

"It is a privilege to be included in the consortium of organizations that holds this premier USAID contract," said George Krivo, senior vice president, DynLogistics. "This adds to DI's full spectrum of rule of law programs, protecting and promoting human rights worldwide."

Through individually-competed task orders, awardees will support USAID efforts in responding to rule of law challenges and developing human rights cultures. Activities may include reforming legal frameworks and strengthening actors and institutions within and beyond the justice sector including: the ministry of justice, judiciary, prosecutors, legal defense, investigators, civilian police, independent governmental institutions, professional associations, schools and universities, traditional authorities, legislative bodies, civil society, private sector associations, and citizens.

The competitively-awarded, multiple award IQC has a five year period of performance with a total shared ceiling contract value of $500 million.
